Linux day 06

LOCATE & FIND COMMANDS:

These commands are used to search for a file in Linux system.

locate filename: used to locate a file.

but we have to update the database before execute the locate command.

to update the database : updatedb

FIND COMMAND: Used to search for a file.

syntax: find path-flag filename

ex: find /devops/java.txt find . -type d: used to find the directory.

find . -type f: used to find the file.

find . -user username: used to find the data based on username.

find . -group groupname: used to find the data based on groupname.

find . -perm permissions(644/777): used to find the data based on permissions find . -mtime no.of.days(10): used to find the data based on days.

find . -mmin -60(minuts): used to find the data based on mints.